

University Mobility Networks in Asia: What are they good for?

Lead Presenter : Shingo Ashizawa
University : Toyo University

Co-presenter 1 : Taiji Hotta
University : Hiroshima University

Co-presenter 2 : Yazrina Yahya
University : Universiti Kebangsaan Malaysia

APAIE 2018 Conference & Exhibition | 25 to 29 March 2018

Lead Host:

Co-Hosts:

www.apaie2018.org

University Mobility Networks in Asia: What are they good for?

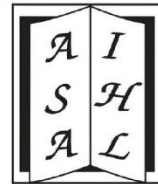

The UKM Experience

Mobility Networks @ UKM

Top 10 International Association Among Malaysian Public Universities

AUN/SEED-Net

ASEAN
University
Network

The Talloires
Network

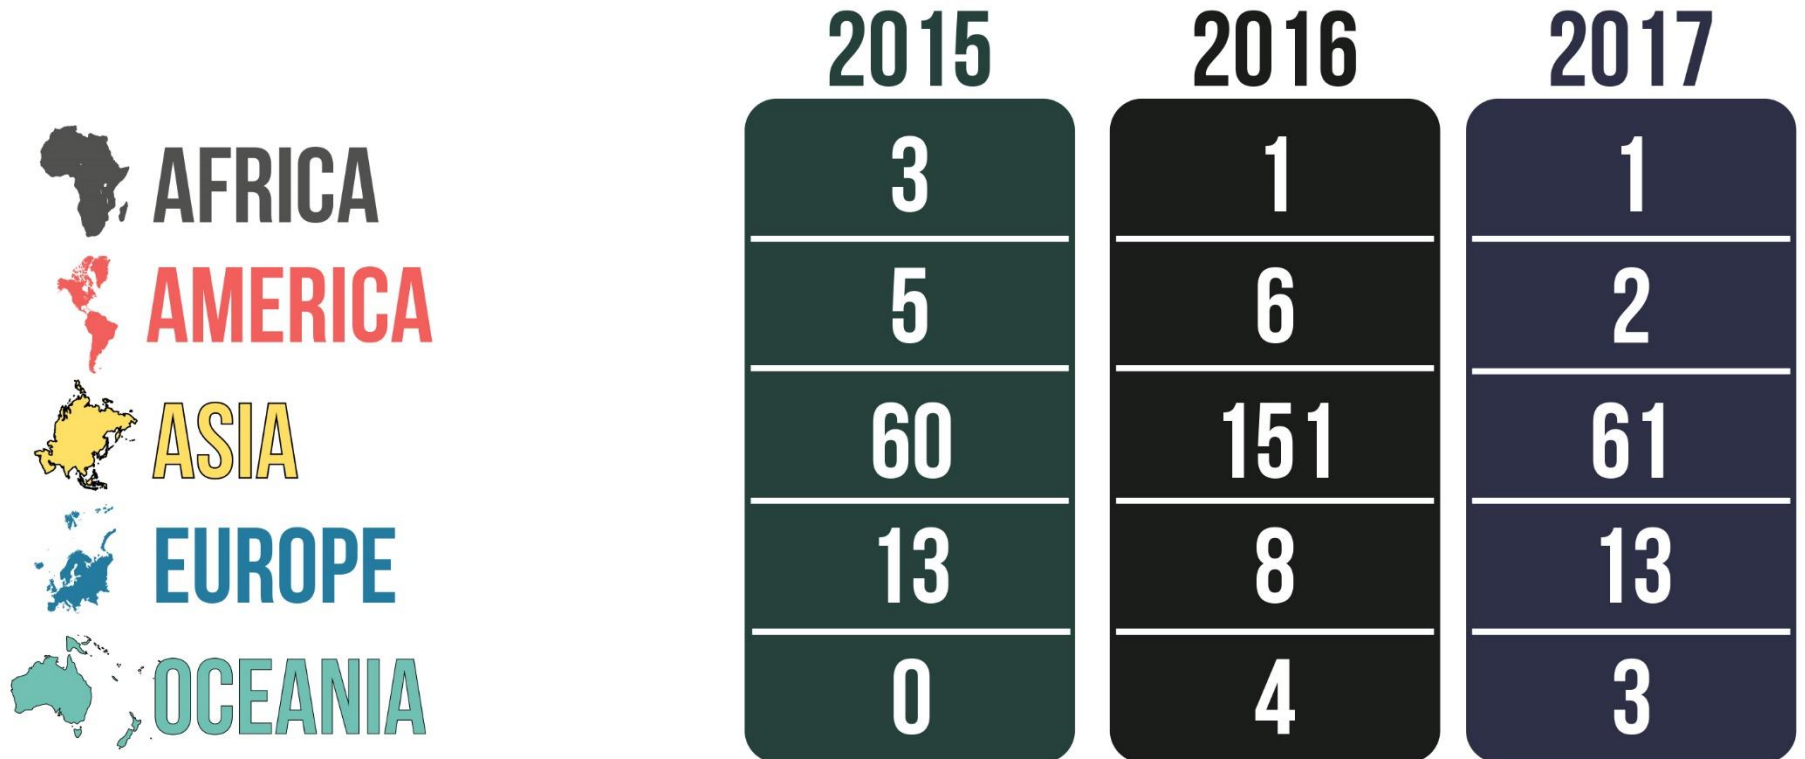

Mobility Networks @ UKM: Impact

Inbound and Outbound Exchange

Mobility Networks @ UKM: Impact

Collaboration Agreements by Continents (2015-2017)

Mobility Networks @ UKM: Impact

Types of Collaboration Documents (2015-2017)

2015
25

2016
90

2017
33

LOI

2015
11

2016
23

2017
14

MOA

2015
45

2016
61

2017
35

MOU

Mobility Networks @ UKM: Impact

Partners

2015

96 VISITS

2016

119 VISITS

37 MEETINGS

2017

85 VISITS

APAIE 2017

60 MEETINGS

45 MEETINGS

Mobility Networks @ UKM: Impact

Benefits

Students

- Network and friendship
- Creating global citizens
- Employability
- Recognition for university
- Interpersonal skills development

University

- Strategic network
- Industry involvement
- Working with communities
- Global Alumni
- Stronger bilateral and multilateral relationship

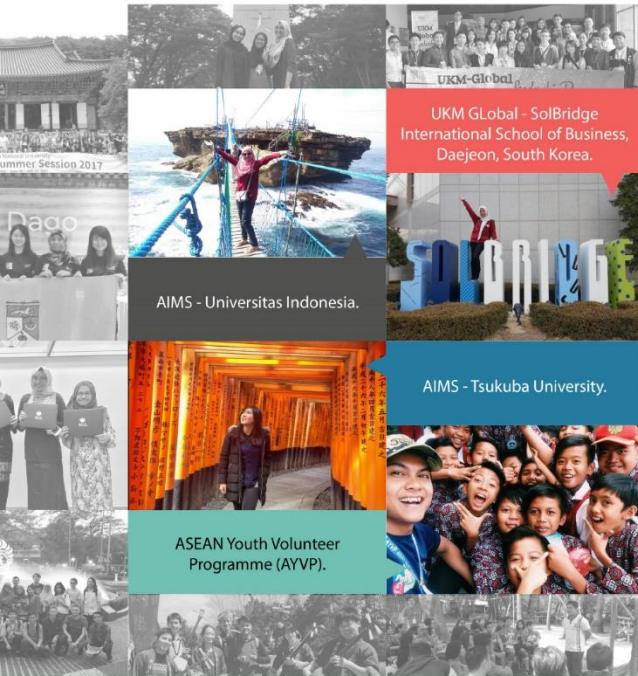

Issues and Challenges

- Financial sustainability
- Increasing Participation
- Adaptation & Culture
- Marketing & Product appeal
- The global economy
- Differences in academic approach and standards.

Benefits: Student Testimonial

Nurismatul - University of Phillipines

This experience has taught me a lot on being a global citizen, where it opens up my mind about the importance of building relationship with others and respecting differences.

Patricia - Sophia University

Being abroad in Tokyo has shown me that you have to do something big to be amazing. Everyday is a life lesson and a beginning to new adventure.

Syazwin - Tsukuba

My experience in Japan has brought a lot of bitersweet memories that for me are irreplaceable. In Japan I learnt about new culture, met new friends and I also had to learn a new language. But after all, travelling can be one of the most rewarding forms of introspection.

www.apaie2018.org

Thank You
Terima Kasih

